PO Submission

Freescale Semiconductor's preferred communication method for purchase orders and remit advice will be: Email, Fax or Regular Postal Mail. Email will be used as our primary mechanism and subsequent methods will be used only if email is not available. The requirements for submitting email addresses are as follows:

- We strongly advise against using a public domain for email addresses. A public domain is defined as any email service that is not owned by the vendor, or an associated company, (i.e., America On Line, Hotmail, Yahoo, etc.). Freescale Semiconductor may be sending information that may be considered confidential/proprietary via the email address you provide to us for the purpose of PO submission, Remittance advice, or correspondence.
- Email accounts must be able to accept file attachments up to one megabyte.
- We strongly advise against using Personal email accounts. Email accounts should belong to a department or group, (i.e., Sales Department, Accounts Receivables, etc.)
- Email accounts must have routine monitoring to ensure the stability and fulfillment of email transmissions.

As always, Freescale Semiconductor's purchase orders, remit advice, and communications are intended for the sole audience of the recipient. In order to guarantee this, Freescale Semiconductor will be unable to accept any email addresses that do not comply with the above requirements. If you have any questions please contact your Information Technology department.
